Statement

I am a Scottish artist based on the Isle of Skye exploring the intersections of landscape, ecology, and mythology through drawing, painting, and sculpture. My practice is rooted in close observation of tidal shores, gardens, and the apiary, where rhythms, cycles, and patterns inspire form and concept. I am drawn to thresholds and liminal spaces, exploring poetic and metaphysical qualities in everyday life. Bees, hives, and seaweed recur as material and metaphor, embodying transformation, interconnection, and alchemy. Skye’s folklore and classical myth, including Homer’s Odyssey, inform the conceptual dimension of my work. Through residencies, workshops, and site-responsive projects, I engage with place and community, revealing ecological and human cycles and hidden connections between natural, mythic, and imaginative worlds.
